Circus Ring in Show Time the Funny Sovelty in "The New Clown"-The Dramatic and Vaudeville Changes of Bill for the Last Week of Summer.

The season's disclosure of new plays in Broadway theatres began last night at the Garrick with laughter. If many of the forthcoming pieces are as successful seriously as "The New Clown" was merrily. our stage will give small excuse for the grumblers. True, the fun in this farce did not start right off, but there was a plenty of it when it got under headway. and its quality was so good that an audience of very knowing people let it tickle them half to death. This triumph of nonsense wasdue in part to an excellent performance yet praise need not be begrudged to H. M. Paull, the English acthor, for the considerable ingenuity of his work.

A circus expected a new clown, a stranger the boss showman except by reputation as a mething of an acrobat as well as an riginal jester. Now, an effeminate and dawdling young Lord Cyril Garston, silly ass, you know, had convinced himself that he had killed a friend. To escape from imaginary pursuers he got himself into this jeb of clowning. The second act of the farce showed the predicament into which his false pretence plunged him during a rehearsal. His jokes were feeble, he could not do the promised feats and he was in constant fear of being kicked by the trained donkey that he was to operate. The cirus master was a bully inclined to use his whips on the incompetent Cyril, a jealous strong man threatened him with a thrashing and his situation became desperate

An essential in this entertainment was an actor who could simultaneously be gentlemanly and ludierous, as funny with the antics of a bogus clown as those of a genuine lown could be -in short, an accomplished comedian, Mr. Frohman had found a completely satisfactory artist in Jameson Lee Finney. He was droll quietly where a less clever man would have had to be either clant or ineffectual. Another suitable factor in the farce was Jessie Busley as the showman's niece and an equestrienne with a touch of sentiment in her good nature. George Irving, Winchell Smith, Harrison Armstrong and Ralph Delmore belped the action. Margaret Gordon and Beatrice Morgan were very pretty.

The rehearsal in the sawdust ring had some aspects of extravaganza through the presence of eight comely and skirtless young women. They were circus performers, so the bill said, but really they served as a chorus when Julius Witmark and Mand Raymond sang songs. Mr. Witmark introduced a catchy waltz ballad and Miss Raymond a London music hall ditty, a negro jingle and some topical thymes. That made the show vaudeville of the time being.

But for the most part "The New Clown" was wit and humor pertaining to Lord Cyril's sore trials in clowning. There was knockabout violence, but any amount of seat and easy comicality. Even in the last act, when Mr. Finney wore the motley of the ring, and Miss Busley the tights, the manher of comedy was not dropped by them. There was a preposterous farce that recommended itself to polite people so strongly that they applauded as well as langhed.

New plays were on sale last night at low "Man to Man" at the Star had been seen in New York, nor had "The Price of Honor" at the Metropolis. They were thrilling melodramas. "Mr. Walker's Word" had its first city performance at the Fifth Avenue. "A Romance of Coon Hollow" was revived at the Third Avenue, "An rabian Night" at Proctor's Fifty-eighth Street, "The Days of Herod" at the Twentyhird Street and "Dora" at the 125th Street. SIX SMUGGLERS ARRESTED. wo Were Women and All Were Caught as

They Landed at Ogdensburg. OGDENSBURG, N. Y., Aug. 25.-Six Ogdensburg smugglers, two of them women, were arrested late Saturday night by Special Inspectors Day and Sessions of this city. The articles seized consisted of two skiffs and a punt, 130 pounds of granulated sugar. fifty pounds of butter, forty pounds of beef, fifty dozen of eggs, ten pounds of ea, a large quantity of olives, currants, soda biscuits and rice. More or less smuggling has been going on between Ogdensburg and Prescott for some time, and the Government agents, who have been working quietly on the case for several days, decided to bag the party if possible.

Saturday night at 9 o'clock the officers went to the northern depot and stationed themselves on the dock. At about 11 o'clock a skiff made its appearance, moving quietly through the water. The oarsman headed for the dock where the officers were, and as he landed was placed under arrest. A few minutes later two more boats came in and the occupents were also arrested. One boat contained two women and a man another two men and a third boat one man.

The smugglers will be arraigned before
Collector Kellogg and it is likely will have to pay heavy fines, besides losing their boats and provisions.

WONDERFUL ENTERTAINMENT FOR SOCIETY AT BEAULIEU.

Triumph of the Newport Season. NEWPORT, Aug. 25 .- Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr.'s theatrical performance at ner summer villa, Beaulieu, to-night, will long be remembered by the hundreds that were present as the crowning feature of this season. Mrs. Vanderbilt arranged for a similar entertainment last year, not on quite so elaborate a scale, but had to abandon it on the day set for it on account of the death of President McKinley.

This year, instead of giving a society drama with amateurs in the cast, as was to have been the case last season, she closed one of the New York theatres for a day and had the entire company, 100 in number, including the orchestra, come to Newport and play on the back lawn for her guests. This is the first time that a whole play has been presented in Newport for a private ndividual. For weeks past preparations for the affair have been under way, and the last week men have been working night and day making things ready for the many features Mrs. Vanderbilt had arranged for.

Mrs. Vanderbilt chose to call to-night's entertainment an "at home." From the time the guests arrived until they departed, well along toward dawn, there were surprises in store for them. The affair cost Mrs. Vanderbilt a small fortune, a conservative estimate being $25,000.

Early in the evening several dinner parties were given and it was after 10 o'clock when the guests began to arrive at Beaulieu.

There is a sweeping circular driveway from Bellevue avenue to the entrance of the villa, but to-night the guests did not go direct to the house. The carriages drove inside the gate to a place opposite the entrance to the house, where they alighted at the midway. The midway was 22 feet wide and 250 feet long, was lined with red cloth and was resplendent with streamers and garlands and electric lights in red and white. Strands of laure hung in graceful sweeps overhead and on the sides and draped the booths. sides of the midway were lined with palms and flowering plants.

The attractions in the midway were

The attractions in the midway were numerous and varied, the leading features being the negro comedy team, Williams and Walker, who made a decided hit with their song "Ma Castle on the Nile." Many of the guests joined in the singing of the chorus. Other features of the midway were a Punch and Judy show, a wheel of fortune a gives fortuna teller, punching way were a Punch and Judy show, a wheel of fortune, a gipsy fortune teller, punching bags, weight machines, a doll-baby game, dancing girls, a shooting gallery and ring the cane. At the end of the midway was the theatre ticket office, where the guests exchanged their cards for seat checks.

Passing up the broad stairway, the guests were received by Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt and escorted to the drawing room and thence to the theatre, which served for a ballroom later in the evening.

The villa itself was a wonderland of flowers, being decorated richly in the hallways with scarlet. Pure white garlands ways with scarlet. Pure white garlands were suspended from the plazzas with wide satin ribbons and were interspersed with electric lights. The piazzas were made with palms and furniture into a sort of gallery, from which many of the guests the ballroom several feet below. The drawing room was decorated entirely with American Beauty roses, the reception room with lilies of the valley and the library and other rooms with the choicest of pink and white roses and orchids. Here and there were placed large bunches of gardenias and jessamine.

From the centre of the ceiling flower basket was hung with electric attach ments, and it served as a chandelier. From it to the side walls of the building ropes of pink flowers were draped. Around the sides of the room were clusters of yellow flowers suspended with ribbons. In the centres of many green panels were large Louis XIV. baskets filled with wild roses, trailing vines and other flowers. It the decorations was the idea of the rose, in keeping with the name and character of the theatrical production. The stage was set with palms.

The performance of "The Wild Rose" began at midnight, the two acts of the musical comedy being thrown into one. It was condensed so that it took about an hour and a quarter for presentation. The hit of the evening was made by Marie Cahill, who, at Mrs. Vanderbilt's request, appeared in the cost in the character of 4'era Von Lahn. Her singing of "Nancy Brown" took the audience by storm, they joining in the choruses.

After the performance the guests sat down to supper at tables placed about the lower floor of the villa, and the theatre was transformed into a ballroom, the orchestra being stationed on the stag When the dance began the Wild Rose company was entertained at supper by Mrs. Vanderbilt. The cotillon was led by Henry Worth-The cotillon was led by Henry Worthington Bull, who danced with Mrs. Vanderbilt, and J. D. R. Baldwin, who had Miss May Goelet for a partner. Mrs. Vanderbilt wore a gown of pale green mousesline de soie, and a large picture hat. In the middle of the cotillon the guests were asked to be seated and Williams and Walker, with their wives, appeared on the ballroom floor and executed a cake walk. The favors for the cotillon were very handsome, and included hand-painted fans, necktie cases, silver baskets, match boxes, tie cases, silver baskets, match boxes cigarette cases, crystal atomizers, dolls mechanical toys, flowers and enamelled buckles.

After the cotillon there was a second supper and then general dancing until morning. Among those who entertained at dinner early in the evening were Mrs. Goelet and Mrs. Pembroke Jones. Mrs. Goelet's guests were the Duches of Marlborough, Mrs. Cornelius Vander bilt and Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont.

STOLEN GIRL ABANDONED. She Thinks She Was Picked Up by a Gypsy -Wants Her Parents.

Acting Chief of Police Archibald of Jersey City received a letter yesterday from Alfred B. Williams, editor of the Richmond, Va., News, asking if the police had any record of the disappearance of a child supposed to have been stolen by gypsies in 1888. 1889 or 1890. He enclosed a clipping from a newspaper telling a story of a sixteenyear-old girl who was left at the home of J. L. Webber in Pamplins, Va., by Jim Govel or Goble and Mary Stanley on Dec. 1,

The girl, who called herself "Becky. said that she remembered being picked said that she remembered being picked up by a woman while playing in the road near her home. The woman lifted her into a covered wagon, she said, and drove away very rapidly. She led a gypsy life, travelling from one town to another until ovel and the woman had a quarrel and she

Becky remembers that she once lived in a tall, white house with a porch in front. There were woods around the place and the town was not far away. She had a father who came home every evening with his clothes dirty. She had a big brother who was in the habit of keeping her supplied with pieces of slate which he got where he worked.

The girl is 5 feet 3 inches tall. She has light brown hair, hazel eyes and is quite pretty. She says she wishes above all other things in the world to be restored

ZIEGLER IS AFTER THE POLE.

BALDWIN NOT THE ONLY MAN

The Expedition in the Frithlof Carrying His Secretary Is Equipped for Independent Exploration Under a Leader Whom He Does Not Care to Name.

Failure of the expedition under Explorer Evelyn Briggs Baldwin to reach the North Pole has not discouraged William Ziegler, who had equipped it and looked for important results. Mr. Ziegler is going right ahead, according to an interview with him printed in the Brooklyn Eagle yesterday. Mr. Ziegler is in this reported

"Baldwin knows that he needn't come back to me until he reaches the pole. I told him so before he went and I think he understands that part of it thoroughly. He knows that I don't want to see him. The truth of the matter is that Baldwin is only one string to my bow. I always try to have two. "On the steamship Frithjof, which now believe is at Camp Ziegler, Alger Island, Franz Josef Land, I sent a fully equipped party entirely independent of Baldwin. sent out this party in charge of William S. Champ on July 1. "I gave them very explicit instructions

In the event that the Frithjof has reached Franz Josef Land ell right and the new expedition starts next spring in quest of the pole, Mr. Ziegler says, Baldwin will be instructed to proceed to Camp Ziegler as early as possible next summer, to remain there through the winter and in the spring of 1904 go north to relieve the other ex pedition or find the pole.

Mr. Ziegler looks for full particulars of Baldwin's doings from Champ. He declined to say who the leader of the new expedition is.

LET THE WIRE TAPPERS' GO. Woman Who Sald She Had Bet $6,000 Wouldn't Prosecute.

John Maginnis and Charles McGary, the two alleged "wire tappers" who were arrested on Saturday charged by Mrs. Thomas of 37 East Twenty-sevnth street with having swindled her out of $6,000, were discharged in Jefferson Market police court vesterday. The woman declined to press the case against them.

When the case was called in the afternoon she wasn't in court at all, but David M. Newberger, who said he was her attorney, told the Magistrate he did not want to proceed against the men at this time, beause there were bigger men back of them Emanuel Friend, the prisoners' lawyer eclared the woman was afraid to take the stand against the defendants. "Her name is Helen M. Markham. Why doesn't she go by it?" he asked. Lawyer Friend also said that his clients' arrest was in some way due to the fact that they were not in the good graces of a big wire-tapping syndicate in this city.

One of the most interested spectators in the court room while the case was being heard was a well-known professional crook, who was said to be the head of the syndicate.

BARREN ISLAND ONCE MORE! Long Island Dwellers Protest to Lederle Against the Crematory.

A number of residents of Arverne, Far Rockaway, and other Long Island towns went to the office of Health Commissioner Lederle yesterday afternoon to make complaints against offensive odors from Barren Island. Dr. Lederle had announced that he would give a public hearing on the question as to whether the plant of the Sanitary Utilization Company, which disposes of garbage on Barren Island should be de-clared a public nuisance. The hearing lasted over two hours. Hotel proprietors declared that the odors drove guests away while other men declared that if the wind always blew from Barren Island their property would not be worth 10 cents on the dollar.

Counsel for the company declared that the health of the people of the Borough of Manhattan and Brooklyn was of more importance than the health of perhaps 100,000 persons living along the Long Island coast. It was necessary, he declared, that the city garbage be disposed of. Commissioner Lederle reserved decision. He would put the matter before the full

The Weather. Fair weather prevailed over the country generally yesterday, save for thunderstorms and local showers in Nebraska, Iowa, South Dakota and northwestern Texas. The pressure was high over he country east of the Mississippi, except on the New England coast, where it was low.

There was a storm forming over Kansas which will probably cause rain in the Central States and Lake regions to day. The temperature remained moderate in the States east of the Mississippi, but was rising west of that river.

In this city the day was fair until toward evening. when thunderstorms were threatening; wind light to fresh northwesterly, shifting to southerly in the afternoon; average humidity, 62 per cent.; barometer corrected to read to sea level at 8 A. m., 30:05:

The temperature as recorded by the official at the street level, is shown in the annexed table -Official - Sun's | -Official - Sun's | 1902 | 1901 | 1902 | 1901 | 1902 | 1901 | 1902 | 1901 | 1902 | 1901 | 1902 | 1901 | 1902 | 1901 | 1902 | 1901 | 1902 | 1901 | 1902 | 1901 | 1902 | 1901 | 1902 | 1901 | 1902 | 1901 | 1902 | 1901 | 1902 | 1901 | 1902 | 1901 | 1902 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903 | 1903

Graham's Landlady Didn't Want Him-Janitor Wouldn't Let Him Sleep en Roof. While under the influence of liquor yesterday, Charles Graham went to 187 Fast 118th street, where he used to board. His former landlady, Mrs. Mary Collins, wouldn't let him in but he got up to the roof and went to sleep there. The janitor drove him from the roof and he started sleepily down the five flights of stairs. From the landin at the top of the second flight he tumble headlong to the ground floor, landing on his head and breaking his neck. Death was instantaneous.

FICTION and POPULAR ARTICLE

PELÉE and LA SOUFRIÈRE EMINENT GEOLOGISTS

"The King of Bad Bad" is a lively extravaganza of "pure fooling" by Gouverneur Morris, author of "Tom Beauling," with diverting illustrations by Steele. Among the fiction will also be found "Confessions of a Wife," "The Proving of Lannigan," humorous, by Chester Bailey Fernald, "Rusticators at the Cove," etc., etc. Thomas Nelson Page contributes one of the four humorous stories. It is illustrated by Frost. There is an entertaining article on Mark Twain's Boyhood Home (Hannibal, Mo.), recently visited by the great humorist,-full of pictures.

The beautiful engravings of Cole appear only in THE CENTURY. One of exquisite detail this month.

The two scientific experts, Robert T. Hill of the U.S. Geological Survey, and Israel C. Russell, Professor of Geology. University of Michigan, who went on the Dixie relief expedition, give in this number their personal observations of the West Indian disaster, together with many interesting pictures. Their deductions differ quite materially.
